Understanding Your 2010 1099 Statement

Note: Subsequent and/or Amended Tax Forms Possible

If you hold investments in a mutual fund, regulated investment company (RIC), real estate investment trust (REIT), unit investment trust (UIT), foreign security or any other stock that makes a late dividend-change announcement, you may receive one or more amended tax form(s) to include information provided by these issuers after your original tax form was printed. In addition, information regarding whether or not a dividend paid by a foreign company is eligible for the "qualified dividend" tax rate is subject to change. Dividend amounts are based on the best information that is available to us from the various paying agents at the time your Forms 1099 are prepared for printing. Portions of distributions initially reported as ordinary dividends may later be reclassified by the issuer as qualified dividends, return of capital, or long-term capital-gain income. A corrected tax form will be issued to you reflecting any late reclassification information we receive from the companies or paying agents. Neither First Clearing, LLC ("First Clearing"/"FCLLC") nor your brokerage firm will be responsible for any costs related to your filing of an amended tax return as a result of FCLLC receiving reclassification information from the issuer after we have printed your original Forms 1099, or any subsequent revisions by the issuer of previously provided information.

Our original Forms 1099 will be mailed to clients between February 7 and approximately February 23.

If you have multiple brokerage accounts, you may receive some Forms 1099 in early February but may not receive Forms 1099 for all of your accounts until later in February. Please ensure that you have received the required tax forms for all accounts that may have taxable activity before beginning to complete your tax forms for the IRS.

Widely Held Fixed Investment Trusts (WHFITS)

If you have invested in a Widely Held Fixed Investment Trust security (often referred to as a "WHFIT"), you will likely notice income-reporting amounts that are different from what you received in cash. That is because securities which are established as a grantor trust require reporting based on how and when the income was received by the trust entity, rather than how and when it was paid out to you. In some cases, payments made as late as February 15 of the current year require us to report that income for the prior year. In addition, we are required to report on Form 1099-B the principal payments made by these trusts.

These securities include non-mortgage WHFITs such as unit investment trusts, royalty trusts, commodity trusts, HOLDRs trusts and Widely Held Mortgage Trusts (WHMTs), including mortgage-backed pass-through pools issued by FNMA, FHLMC and GNMA.

Our firms do not render legal or tax advice. While this information is not intended to replace your discussions with your tax advisor, it may help you to comprehend the tax implications of your investments and plan efficiently going forward.

An indispensable tax-planning tool organized in an easy-to-read format

This summary of your reportable and certain non-reportable information will be an indispensable tool when preparing your tax returns. Your Forms 1099 consist of two parts. Your Forms 1099 section reflects the sources and amounts of your income for the year. This information is reported to the IRS. You can easily determine what information is reported to the IRS by referring to the footer at the bottom of each page of the 1099. The second part is the Annual Statement Information which may display realized gain/loss information, that is not provided to the IRS. Amounts shown in this part of your statement are for informational purposes only but may be useful in addition to the information provided in your tax forms. Online tax documents are available; contact your financial professional for information about how you can enroll. Please note that information in the tax section of your Forms 1099 may not match the information in the Annual Statement Information section. If you have questions about this package, please contact your financial professional.

Your 1099 Forms

Important Messages

Please carefully read through the following information, continued on the back panel, as it might be helpful to you as you prepare your tax return.

How to Obtain a Detailed Tax Guide

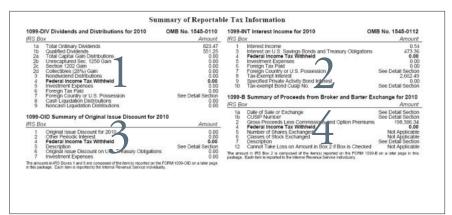

You may obtain a more detailed 2010 Tax Information Guide from the website at firstclearingllc.com. This guide has been designed for your general guidance. It is not intended to be, nor should it be construed as, the basis of tax advice. Two IRS publications from the IRS Web site (IRS. gov) are particularly useful: Publication 17 (Your Federal Income Tax) and Publication 550 (Investment Income and Expenses).

Multiple Tax Forms

If you changed broker-dealers during the year or had an account that moved to or away from First Clearing, LLC ("FCLLC"), and had reportable activity while your account cleared through FCLLC or while at another clearing firm, you will receive separate tax forms from all clearing firms for that activity. Make sure you have all of your tax forms from all firms before completing your return.

Summary of Reportable Tax Information

- Summary of dividends and distributions Dividends and distributions from stocks and other investments are included in this section. This includes capital gains and return of capital.
- Summary of interest income Amounts reported here include interest income paid to you during the year.
- 3. Summary of original-issue discount (OID) Any amounts reported here reflect a form of interest called original issue discount. OID is generally the difference between the stated redemption price at maturity and the issue price of a debt instrument.
- 4. Summary of Proceeds from Broker and Barter Exchange Transactions — Amounts shown in this section include gross proceeds (less commissions) from sales or redemptions of securities and corporate actions (mergers, acquisitions, implicit redemptions, etc.).

Reportable Tax Information

These pages contain the actual information reported to the IRS for various types of activity.

- 1099-B This section will detail any proceeds (less commissions) from broker or barter exchange transactions.
 The reportable amounts can also include return-of-principal payments made by a grantor trust security and short sales before the tax lot is closed, as well as reportable events resulting from corporate actions or implicit redemptions within a structured security.
- 2. 1099-OID Look here for detailed information regarding OID accruals. OID is considered a type of interest income.
- Your REMIC and CMO holdings are listed here. Please note that this income will be mailed to you by March 15, 2011 on a separate REMIC form.
- Your WHMT holdings are listed here. Please note that this income will be mailed to you by March 15, 2011 on a separate WHMT form.
- 5. Some clients may receive a Form 1099-C or 1099-MISC. IRS regulations require that these forms be provided separately from your composite Forms 1099 information. Only the box (or line-total amount) is provided to the IRS for these forms. The transaction-detail information and any footnotes provided are for courtesy purposes only.
- 6. 1099-B for Regulated Futures Contracts If you own Index Options, you will have reporting on this special 1099-B showing realized and unrealized profit and loss on your investments. This information is reported to the IRS.

Realized Gain/Loss Information

This information may not match the reportable tax information presented in the preceding pages that is subject to different reporting rules. This information is not reported to the IRS, but it will become required reporting to the IRS beginning with common stocks acquired after January 1, 2011, mutual funds acquired after January 1, 2012 and fixedincome securities acquired after January 1, 2013.

- 1. Your Realized Gain/Loss Summary will provide your total short- and long-term gains and losses for the year.
- 2. The detail section presents all your closed items for the year in alphabetical order, broken out by long-term, short-term, other-term and index options.
- 3. Option closing activity, should your account have any, is presented in a separate section for your convenience.

First Clearing, LLC as "Payer"

When you file your tax return, list First Clearing, LLC ("First Clearing" or "FCLLC") as the payer on Schedule B of IRS Form 1040 for all dividends and interest received through your brokerage account. Do not list the name of the security issuer, your brokerage firm or any other entity.

Only Forms 1099 Information is Provided to the IRS

When preparing your tax return, use the information provided on your Forms 1099 — not your monthly or quarterly statements. Because of IRS requirements, amounts shown on your Forms 1099 may not always correspond to what appears on your monthly/quarterly account statements or trade confirmations. The information on your Forms 1099 is what is reported to the IRS. FCLLC reports only the line/box total amounts for Forms 1099-DIV, 1099-INT and 1099-MISC. You should consult with your tax advisor about any income-reporting adjustments that may be possible, based on your unique reporting situation.

For Mortgage-Backed Security Holders — Additional reporting in March

If you own any Widely Held Mortgage Trust (WHMT), Real Estate Mortgage Investment Conduit (REMIC) or certain Collateralized Mortgage Obligation (CMO) securities, all reporting information on these securities will be mailed to you no later than March 15, 2011. Your enclosed statement will contain a listing of the REMICs and/or CMOs that you own as well as a listing of the WHMTs that you own. This section will not contain any income information on these securities. Do not file your tax return until you receive this additional information. You must use the REMIC and WHMT 1099 information in addition to the enclosed Forms 1099 when completing your return.

"Substitute payments" reminder

Payments made while securities were loaned from an individual taxpayer's margin account are subject to reporting as "substitute payments in lieu of dividends or interest" on Form 1099-MISC. For example, if you note a dividend amount in your December statement that is different from your Form 1099-DIV amount, that difference could be the result of a dividend payment being identified as a substitute payment and reported in Box 8 of Form 1099-MISC.

General Information

Correction Requests

You should review your Forms 1099 and immediately contact your financial professional if you think a correction is necessary.

Money Market Funds — Overnight Sweep Administrative Fee

An administrative service fee is charged on balances for some money market funds available for cash sweeps and is deducted automatically from monthly income in the form of a reduction in the dividends you receive. The yield quoted and the dividends that appear on your monthly statement are net of this fee. However, the IRS has determined that the gross dividends payable are taxable, regardless of any fee deducted. For this reason, the aggregate service fee for the year is added back to your net dividends, and the total is reported to the IRS as dividends received on your Form 1099-DIV. This fee may be tax deductible as a "miscellaneous itemized deduction," if it exceeds 2% of your adjusted gross income. See a tax advisor concerning the deductibility of this fee.

Original-Issue-Discount Reporting on Form 1099-OID

While generally this income reporting applies to debt obligations sold at a discount, some investments require OID-accrual reporting in lieu of the interest payments you received. The accrual amounts are generally different from the cash payment. Please consult IRS Publication 1212 and your tax advisor about the reporting and adjustment elections for these types of securities.

IRS Form 1099-B transactions

Form 1099-B reports gross proceeds (on a trade-date basis, less commissions) received from the sale or exchange of securities, tender offers, cash received in lieu of a fractional share, various corporate actions, implicit redemptions, partial return of principal payments and the final redemption payment you received on all debt obligations (including municipal bonds and CDs). It is your responsibility to determine and report the applicable gain or loss by completing Schedule D of IRS Form 1040. Your tax advisor should be aware of which situations require adjustments to your cost basis and where the difference between your basis and proceeds may not qualify for capital gain or loss treatment and must be reported as ordinary income or loss. Pursuant to the IRS "Instructions for Form 1099-DIV," any net short-term gains distributed by a mutual fund are reportable on IRS Form 1099-DIV as ordinary dividends instead of on Form 1099-B. Other types of capital gain distributions made by a mutual fund or REIT are also reported on the Form 1099-DIV instead of on the Form 1099-B or Realized Gain/Loss Statement in accordance with the IRS instructions.

A recent federal tax-regulation change requires us to report any partial return-of-principal payment made by a grantor trust security on the Form 1099-B. A payment before the final one does not close your tax lot, so you will not see a corresponding closed tax lot on any realized gain/loss statement included with your tax package. Your tax advisor can explain your options as to how to report these payments on Schedule D of your tax return.

Income reporting – Applicable dates

In accordance with IRS regulations, FCLLC reports income to you based on when it is "credited" or "set apart" in your account, so that it may be withdrawn at any time by you without any limitation. For example, if a bond pays interest in 2011 with a record or maturity date in 2010, the interest will not be reported to you until 2011. Sales are reportable based on the trade date rather than the settlement date because that is the first date it was entered on our books. Exceptions do apply, such as for "RICs" payments or implicit redemptions within a structured security.

Limited-partnership distributions (K-1)

If you owned units in a limited partnership during the year, you will receive a Schedule K-1 (Form 1065) directly from the partnership you own. General partners have until April 15 (or the next business day if April 15 falls on a weekend or holiday) to issue K-1s. If you do not receive your K-1, or you have further questions about it, you must contact the partnership directly. For additional information please refer to IRS Publication 541.

Worthless securities

For information on how to report worthless securities on your tax return, please refer to IRS Publication 550 (under the topic, "Worthless Securities"). You must take this loss by the end of the first tax year for which you determined the shares to be worthless, and no Form 1099-B is required to do this. You should report a security as worthless only if you are absolutely certain no more payments will be received.

529 plans

If you have invested in a 529 plan during 2010, you will receive all required reporting directly from the mutual fund company.

Federal income tax withheld

Clients who have not furnished a taxpayer identification number (TIN) (usually a Social Security number), or the proper certifications (see IRS Form W-9), to the payer of most types of investment income (for example, dividends, interest or gross proceeds) become subject to backup withholding at the applicable federal withholding rate. This amount is charged to your account and paid to the IRS as required by law. Backup withholding is also required if the IRS notifies us that a taxpayer has under-reported dividends or interest in the past, or if the TIN being used to report income does not match a name on the records with the Social Security Administration or the IRS. Federal tax laws prohibit refunds or reversals of prior-year — or properly applied — backup-withholding amounts. You must take this withholding as a credit when you file your tax return for the applicable year. You should also contact your financial professional immediately about how to correct your account and stop backup withholding. If you are subject to "C-notice" backup withholding because IRS records show you have not reported all of your income, you can contact the IRS Taxpayer Advocate Service at 877-777-4778 (TTY/ TTD: 800-829-4059) to discuss the matter and obtain a "stop" letter.
